

Jane Cullen

Jane is a quality improvement advisor working with the Health Quality & Safety Commission's primary care improvement programme: Whakakotahi, meaning 'to be as one'. Jane is a registered nurse. She holds a masters in quality systems (with distinction) from Massey University. Her masters' research was conducted in primary health care improvement and she is a current PhD candidate on the same topic. Prior to working for the Commission she worked for Central PHO and has also worked in aged residential care, hospice and DHB in quality improvement roles.